Parent and Infant Class Parent and Toddler Class

What is a Parent and Child class?

Do you find your infant or toddler needing constant stimulation? Are you unsure of what your child really needs? Are you able to sit and truly observe your child, appreciating every moment for what it presents? Do you want your child to be self-confident, autonomous, and live a more authentic life?

Renaissance School introduces a Parent and Child class whose core principles, respecting and following the child, will ease parenting stress, help individuals become fully present during parenting, and help infants and toddlers develop optimal physical and emotional security while being afforded the opportunity to develop naturally.

In the course of everyday living, parents spend the majority of their time feeding, diapering, bathing and monitoring activities. We sometimes lament the fact that we have very little opportunity to enjoy and appreciate the wonders in our midst, our children. These classes were established to give parents this opportunity. Through observation and discussions, parents are able to become fully present for their child, gain a better understanding of development and to learn to meet the true needs of their child without sacrificing their own. In addition, the children are afforded the opportunity to interact on a regular basis with a familiar group of children, freely move and unfold as a human being.

Parent and Infant or Parent and Toddler classes are weekly opportunities for parents to bond and grow with their child (3 months-3 years). The classes are fun, informative and offer a supportive environment for parents to discover and honor the spirit of their child. Parents are encouraged to relax, observe and enjoy the precious time.
